

TikTok sale to Walmart, Oracle stalls as Biden reviews security

REUTERS February 10

ORACLE AND WALMART's plan to buy TikTok's US operations has been pushed back indefinitely, as President Joe Biden reviews the previous administration's efforts to address potential security risks posed by Chinese tech companies, the Wall Street Journal reported on Wednesday.

The administration of former President Donald Trump had cited national security concerns in its targeting of TikTok, arguing that the personal data of U.S. users could be obtained by China's government, while TikTok denies the allegation.

This comes as TikTok's parent, ByteDance, finds itself in a legal tussle with the US government, with many federal courts barring the Commerce Department's attempt to shut down TikTok's operations in the United States.

Discussions have continued between representatives of ByteDance and US national security officials, the WSJ report said, citing people familiar with the matter. TikTok has been in talks with Walmart and Oracle since September to finalize a deal that would shift TikTok's US assets into a new entity to prevent its total ban on use in the country.

Quad key example of US, partners pulling together for free and open Indo-Pacific: US

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA Washington, February 10

THE QUAD IS a key example of the US and its closest partners, including India, pulling together for the good of a free and open Indo-Pacific region, the Biden administration has said.

The Quad, or the Quadrilateral Security Dialogue, is an informal grouping of four countries -- Australia, India, Japan and the United States. It is aimed at ensuring a free and open Indo-Pacific, a strategically vital region that witnessed increasing Chinese military assertiveness in recent years.

"What I would say generally is that the Quad is a key example of the United States and our closest partners, including, in this case, India, pulling together for the good of a free and open Indo-Pacific region," State Department Spokesperson Ned Price told reporters at his daily news conference on Tuesday.

The evolving situation in the Indo-Pacific region in the wake of China's increasing military muscle flexing has become a major talking point among leading global powers. The US has been favouring making Quad, comprising a security architecture to check China's growing assertiveness.

China is engaged in hotly contested territorial disputes in the South and East China Seas. Beijing has also made substantial progress in militarising its man-made islands in the past few years.
