

'Where am I going?': Chouhan's shoutout to ladli behnas

ANAND MOHAN J Bhopal, December 12

SHIVRAJ SINGH CHOUHAN'S farewell was befitting of Shivraj Singh Chouhan's fight.

As the day finally arrived for Madhya Pradesh's longest-serving chief minister to leave the CM House in Bhopal, after contributing to the BJP's historic win in the state, there were tears, hugs, the ubiquitous Ladli Behnas and, above all, appeals to Chouhan to "not leave".

His hand on the heads of those sobbing Ladli Behna beneficiaries on either side of him, Chouhan—replaced as CM after four terms in the post, by the unforeseen Ujjain (South) MLA Mohan Yadav—assured he wasn't going anywhere.

One of the women, among the group gathered at the CM House to meet Chouhan, said:

"Hum aapko nahin chhodenge (We will not leave you)." The senior BJP leader, whose future role in the party remains uncertain, replied: "Mein bhi kahan ja raha hoon. Mein bhi nahin chhodunga (Where am I going? I won't leave either)."

The woman made another appeal: "Aapne kitni mehnat kari. Behnon ne aapko chuna hai, aapko vote diya tha bhaiya. (You worked so hard. The sisters chose you, voted for you, brother)."

The hall packed with journalists where Chouhan delivered his farewell speech was dominated by a large LED screen, playing on loop highlights from his marathon campaign trail, and endless pictures of the ex-CM surrounded by women and children, showering him with petals.

Chouhan was asked about his plans, if the party would rope him in for the Lok Sabha elections, and if he stood by his past statements on "not going to Delhi". The questions riled the usually mild-mannered leader, who shot back: "I say this very humbly, that I would rather die than ask for something for myself. And that's why I won't go to Delhi."

He claimed he had accepted his status as former CM, having "risen above all this". "A simple worker was chosen as CM by the BJP for so many years... the BJP gave me everything. Now it's time for me to give back to the BJP. Why is this so hard to think of?... It doesn't matter what I haven't become," Chouhan said, adding that he will "do whatever work the party assigns me".

Calling the BJP as a party on a mission, he said: "I do not and have never taken any decision on my own, neither in the past, nor today, nor will I ever do so in the future. My party will decide."

Supporters get emotional as they meet former Madhya Pradesh chief minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan in Bhopal on Tuesday.

Still, Chouhan has made his preference clear. Even as others in the Madhya Pradesh CM race made a beeline for Delhi after the results, Chouhan chose to throw himself back into campaign mode, launching 'Mission 29', to win all 29 Lok Sabha seats for the BJP in the state.

With Ladli Behna the centrepiece of Tuesday's show, as it was during Chouhan's campaign, the former CM said women's empowerment for him never meant just votes for him. "It came from my heart... I saw the plight of daughters and sisters in my village since my childhood. Daughters were killed in the womb, they were born in pain. I started the Ladli Laxmi Yojana... I used to help get daughters married even when I was nothing. I never thought I would become the CM," he said.

As for this legacy, Chouhan's promise of increasing the stipend under the Ladli Behna Yojana from ₹1,500 to ₹3,000 per month could take a while, with CM-elect Mohan Yadav saying cryptically that his government would continue "the good schemes".

However, Chouhan assured that his poll promise of turning Ladli Behnas into Lakhpati Behnas next would be fulfilled. "The relationship of brother and sister will continue forever... The BJP government will fulfill the promises made in the manifesto," he said.

Backing Yadav, Chouhan added: "Under his guidance, the BJP government will work swiftly to complete the ongoing projects. It will implement public welfare schemes and take Madhya Pradesh to new heights of progress and development."

He said he remained proud of having brought the state so far. "When Madhya Pradesh came to us, it was a backward and BIMARU state... (We) embarked on a long journey of development and progress... I do not consider myself perfect, but I have done whatever I could with complete dedication... From roads with potholes to magnificent highways, we have brought the state from darkness to light... Now, this journey will reach even greater heights under the leadership of Mohanji."

He only had one demand of the incoming CM: permission to plant trees on government land, something of a passion for Chouhan. "We have to keep Earth habitable for future generations. Therefore, I plant trees every day," he said.

The 64-year-old said it was his connect with the public that kept him going.

That image of the benevolent Mamaji was also on display. As he shared a farewell lunch with journalists, Chouhan was the perfect host — giving away a rasgulla, preferring to wait for his missi roti, ensuring no one's plate was empty.

First-time MLA is new Rajasthan CM

Rajasthan chief minister-designate Bhajan Lal Sharma with former CM Vasundhara Raje and Union minister Rajnath Singh in Jaipur on Tuesday.

HAMZA KHAN Jaipur, December 12

CONTINUING ITS TREND of surprise picks for chief ministers, the BJP on Tuesday announced first-time MLA Bhajan Lal Sharma, 56, for the Rajasthan top post.

This ends a 25-year run in the state, during which either Ashok Gehlot (Congress) or Vasundhara Raje (BJP) have been its CM.

Raje, who harboured hopes of becoming CM and had BJP MLAs making a beeline to meet her since the results, announced Sharma's name at the legislature party meeting held in the presence of central observers. The other MLAs seconded the proposal, making the Sanganeer MLA whose name did not figure among the probables, being talked about, the new CM of Rajasthan.

Incidentally, as the state general secretary, Sharma had called Tuesday's meeting. A photo prior to the meeting had him standing in the last row.

Raje was handed over a slip of paper, apparently with Sharma's name, by Rajnath, and she made the announcement.

The BJP also announced two deputy CMs, Vidyadhar Nagar MLA Diya Kumari and Dudu MLA Prem Chand Bairwa—all the three top posts will hence be represented now by legislators whose seats fall within Jaipur district.

The choice of Diya Kumari, who as a woman leader of royal descent was seen as a challenger to Raje, indicates an attempt to fill the void left by Raje's sidelining within the party.

While Sharma is a brahmin, Kumari is a rajput and Bairwa a dalit, a mix of different castes, which the BJP has also gone in for in Madhya Pradesh and Chhattisgarh. In Chhattisgarh, its CM-elect is tribal leader Vishnu Deo Sai (59), while the Deputy CMs are expected to be a brahmin and an OBC; in Madhya Pradesh, the party has picked Mohan Yadav (58), an OBC, as CM, with a dalit and a brahmin as deputy CMs.

Sharma defeated Pushpendra Bhardwaj of the Congress by 48,081 votes from Sanganeer, while Kumari registered the highest victory margin in Rajasthan this time, 71,368 votes. Bairwa defeated Babulal Nagar of the Congress by 35,743 votes.

Defence minister Rajnath Singh, one of the three central observers, said Sharma's name was "unanimously accepted by all the MLAs". "I am confident that Rajasthan will progress rapidly under the leadership of Bhajan Lal Sharma. All the workers have extended their hearty congratulations to him."

Joe Biden not visiting India for R-Day

US PRESIDENT JOE Biden is not travelling to India next month to grace the Republic Day celebrations as the Chief Guest, and New Delhi is looking at holding the next Quad summit later next year instead of its earlier plan to host it in January, people familiar with the matter said on Tuesday.

In September, US Ambassador to India Eric Garcetti said Prime Minister Narendra Modi invited President Biden to be the Chief Guest for the Republic Day celebrations on January 26 next year. However, there was no official word from India on the invitation to Biden. PTI
